Diocesan Review Renewal Journey

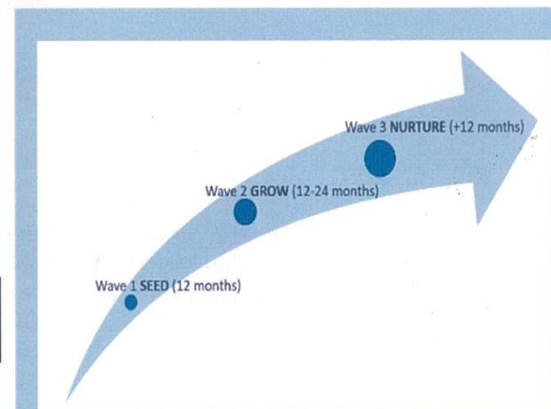

Several initiatives have started following the review phase of the Diocesan review. We are now moving to the renewal phase. In this new stage, we will start designing solutions embracing change to create a new vision for the Diocese. We will ask clergy, parishioners and other lay people to contribute their ideas, skills, experience, passion and time for the future of the Diocese.

I would like to ask for your support if you are approached for input, information or participation in a particular way.

If you have any question, please do not hesitate to get in touch with the Renewal Journey Team at renewal@lismore.catholic.org.au

What's Next? 3 Waves of Implementation

Several themes for action have emerged and are proposed in three waves as a multi-year journey of renewal for the Diocese.

- A soft implementation has been started with participation of clergy and lay people from the ground up, with the principle of collaboration, co-design and co-responsibility.
- To help drive the next phases of work, we are pleased to announce that Deacon Anthony Gooley based in the Ballina parish has joined the team as we move from review into the renewal journey. Anthony has taken on the new role of Pastoral Projects Leader and will work with project teams to implement several projects which have been identified in the review. Anthony has a depth of knowledge and wealth of experience in theology, pastoral support, and leadership development.
- There are four areas of focus in the self-examination and renewal journey.
 - Parishes.
 - Clergy.
 - Selected Diocesan structures.
 - Administration of temporal goods.

The soft implementation has targeted three of the four areas of focus of the renewal which are considered to be low-hanging fruit.

Diocese

- Development of a model for a Diocesan pastoral council for the Diocese
- Renewal of the Diocesan youth ministry function

Parish

- Exploring inter-parish collaboration via regional workshops.
- Preparation of lay-led liturgy material, protocols and processes for parishes.
- Centralised information database for parish pastoral support.

Clergy

- Design of protocols and processes for clergy induction into the Diocese
- Design of Clergy and parish profile templates for introduction of new Clergy into a parish.

In addition, a co-ordination group has been set up to oversee the above initiatives reporting to the Bishop and the Council of Priests.
